Let there be light

(And now Cllr Flood has worked out how . . .)

DEBRA FOX

STREETLIGHTS in Haverhill's housing estates could be switched back on after midnight – if they meet the criteria of Suffolk County Council.

Residents have expressed worries after they were plunged into darkness at night – so much so that some have resorted to leaving their landing lights on until morning, to throw light onto the streets.

But one determined councillor has created an application form to help people get individual lights switched back on.

County councillor Julian Flood, who represents Haverhill Cangle ward, succeeded in getting a lamp on the Clements Estate switched on in response to concerns about safety on a set of steps.

Now he is encouraging residents to follow his lead if they believe there's a real problem.

He said: "It was almost impossible to get a light switched back on, because you were just going round and round.

"I thought I would produce a procedure – and then that should be all you have to follow to make the system work."

Cllr Maureen Byrne, deputy mayor of Haverhill, has been assisting residents with their worries for the past two years. She has even teamed up with the police to distribute alarms

ENLIGHTENED: Cllr Julian Flood and Cllr Maureen Byrne have both been campaigning to get streetlights switched on and torches to women who have to leave for work early in the morning. Speaking at Tuesday's town council meeting, Cllr Byrne said: "We are all as disappointed and frustrated as you [the residents] are."

Cllr Flood's application form, which is available to download from Haverhill Town Council's website, lists the criteria for having a light switched back on.

Reasons accepted by the county for warranting a change include reducing the risk of crime, lighting remote alleyways linking residential streets and lighting near to pedestrian crossings, footbridges and subways.

Each form then has to be "endorsed" by a councillor, and signed by the police.

A spokesman for Suffolk County Council said: "When we receive a request to turn a streetlight back on, it is assessed by officers and consultation takes place with the relevant county councillor and local police team. This was the case in the Bedford Court/Clements Close area where residents were concerned about a lack of night-time lighting around a set of public steps.

"We agreed with the points raised and switched the nearest light back on.

"We have well-established criteria which makes clear when and where we would switch a light back on.

"We have received very few requests in the Haverhill area but will of course consider any we do receive in partnership with the police."

International visitors for school

NORWEGIAN teachers and teaching assistants visited one of Haverhill's academies for a lesson.

The 47 staff, from the Gjesdal School in Solasveien, observed classes and took part in workshops run at Samuel Ward Academy.

In turn, the Haverhill teachers learned about the Norwegian school system.

Howard Lay, principal, said: "This was a great opportunity to further develop our international links with a similar school and share some valuable ideas about teaching and the curriculum.

"Both schools had things to learn from each other and we hope to return the visit some time."

Historic cottages to be sold at auction

TWO historic cottages made from clay lump could be yours – for between £50,000 and £70,000.

The buildings, on Haverhill High Street, could have been demolished earlier this month if an application from Havebury Housing had been approved.

But now, the housing provider has decided to put the cottages up for auction in the hope that they can be restored.

Havebury planned to build six flats at 85 and 87 High Street, but demolition was refused by St Edmundsbury Borough Council's Development Control Committee on November 7.

After appealing to town and borough councils to buy the cottages, which date back to the 1820s, Havebury is opening the offer to the wider public on December 17 through Auction House East Anglia in Ipswich.

At Haverhill Town Council's meeting on Tuesday, resident John Burns told councillors of the plans.

County councillor Tony Brown, for Haverhill East and Kedington, was also in talks with Havebury about the future of the houses.

He said: "Havebury couldn't have been more helpful and responsive to what we are trying to achieve. If this was just a normal developer, I am sure we wouldn't have had this conversation at all. We give our thanks to them for that."

If the original plans were approved, Havebury planned to build six flats and include "heritage features" from the cottages in the design.

Now, if the cottages are sold, plans are in place to build four flats on the site alongside the cottages, as well as a shared courtyard.

When the cottages go under the hammer, there will be clauses attached to the sale to ensure that any new owner renovates the cottages within a sensible timescale.

The guide price will be between £50,000 and £70,000.

Cllr Brown said: "We want to try and get as much interest in them as possible and we want to encourage a local builder to take them on."

"It is a heritage project, and the whole town has been involved in trying to achieve this."

Havebury's original application for six flats and demolition of the cottages will still go before the borough's Development Control Committee on December 5.

Paul Edwards, Director of Resources at Havebury Housing Partnership said: "If the cottages sell at auction, Havebury will seek to amend its plans and build affordable housing in the remainder of the site."

"I would like to thank everyone who has been involved in the discussions and hope that we are now one step closer to moving forward on this project and providing much needed affordable homes in Haverhill."

Can you help with typhoon appeal?

THOSE collecting for the Philippines still need your help.

Grandmother Lynn Lansdown, of Haverhill, started a collection for victims of Typhoon Haiyan – but they need transport to send their aid to those in need.

The team are looking for clothes, baby milk, canned food, pasta and rice, bottled juice and water, towels and wash items and other items to use for shelter, such as tents and tarpulins.

If you'd like to make a donation to the appeal, please drop it off at the New Cangle Primary School, on Chapple Drive, Haverhill.

For more information, call Lynn on 07585447305.

Lasting tribute to much-loved Les

A MUSICAL scholarship and festival are just some of the ideas in the pipeline to pay tribute to a late councillor.

Town and borough councillor Les Ager, pictured, died on October 24, and now his colleagues on the town council are searching for a fitting way to honour his memory.

Will Austin, town clerk, has been tasked with exploring the possibility of a scholarship in Cllr Ager's name, and if he could be commemorated in a festival.

Teenager struck on the head

A TEENAGE boy sustained cuts after being struck on the head.

The 17-year-old was walking along a footpath between Leiston Road and Leather Lane, Haverhill, when he was hit on the head by an unknown object.

As he was hit, he heard a low thud, consistent with that made by an air rifle. Police believe it could have been a pellet.

The incident happened on November 22, around 9.10pm and police are appealing for witnesses.

Anyone with information about this incident is asked to contact PC Guy Ainsworth at Haverhill Police Station on 101.

You can also call Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

Support from former mayor helps to fund new van

A CHARITY which funds Haverhill projects has received a boost from a former mayor.

REACH Community Projects, which runs the town's Foodbank and Furniture Bank, took delivery of a new van to help with work.

Former mayor of St Edmundsbury Tim Marks chose REACH as one of his charities during his year in office, and donated more than £4,100.

Henry Wilson, leader of REACH, said the van will help to "up their game" and plan for future projects.

He said: "A new van for the furniture project is something we've been planning and trying to raise funds for for quite some time, so to get such an amazing amount as £4,155 from Cllr Marks and his wife Margaret was a fantastic boost to this fund."

"It was such an honour and privilege to be one of Cllr Marks' charities for the year."

Demand for furniture and food is high, with people desperate for fridges, freezers, microwaves and bedroom furniture.

Cllr Marks said: "I am delighted to be able to give some practical support to this essential organisation."

"As Christmas approaches I hope that everyone will dig deep and give generously so that we can all have a happy Christmas."

NEWS IN BRIEF

Family Christmas concert

HAVERHILL'S Silver Band are joining in with festive celebrations.

The group will perform at the Arts Centre from 4pm on December 8 as part of the Family Christmas Concert.

Christmas favourite The Snowman will be central to the group's performance, with projected images being shown throughout.

Stolen items returned

SEVENTY-nine items of stolen property have been returned to their rightful owners.

Members of the public from Cambridgeshire, Essex and Hertfordshire were reunited with their property at a two-day event held by Herts Police.

Some of the items seized were from burglaries in Castle Camps and Horseheath.

More than 200 items are still waiting to be claimed.

Helping with Christmas lunch

MEMBERS of Slimming World groups in Haverhill have been collecting for the Salvation Army.

During October, the groups collected all of their loose change to fund the charity's Christmas Day dinner, which costs £21 per person to provide.

The Salvation Army will give people who would otherwise be on their own lunch, dinner and company.

Festive fun day at nursery

ARTS, crafts and playtime will be taking place at a day nursery.

Dizzy Ducks, on Homefield Road, Haverhill, are inviting families to meet the team and indulge in some Christmas fun with their children.

It's also a chance for potential families to see the facilities and sign up on the day.

Santa Claus is also popping by to meet the children.

The event is free, and for all local families to attend. Call 01440 702151.

£5,000 pledge to town's rugby club

A SPORTS club in Haverhill is going to be transformed for the future with the help of a town council grant.

Haverhill Rugby Club, which will celebrate its 50th year in 2014, is getting £5,000 towards the installation of new shower facilities for members.

Costing an estimated £20,000, it is hoped that the project will not only encourage more players to join up, but also ensure the club's long term future.

Speaking at Haverhill Town Council's meeting on Tuesday, Chris Spencer, chairman, said: "The current facilities are affecting player retention and senior and youth levels – we're concerned about the club's long term future."

"We need there to be a higher water pressure when we need it, and a heating system – we're looking for an environmentally friendly solution."

Mr Spencer said that the expectation for the showers is higher now – and the quality of the current ones is not good enough for players.

The club is also receiving grants from the Rugby Football Foundation, Suffolk County Council's Locality Budget and the Eastern Counties

DEBRA FOX

Rugby Union to help with the project, which will benefit around 100 people.

The investment in the showers will secure the future of the club. Mark Jury, president, explained, and allow the club house, on School Lane, to be continually used for community activities such as zumba, bingo and dog training.

It's also used as a polling station.

Mr Jury said: "This will protect a venue, resource and organisation that has contributed positively to the town for almost half a century."

The club president also hailed the investment as a way to encourage more children in Haverhill to get involved with sport, or continue playing after leaving school.

Haverhill Rugby Club's youth section was re-established in 2001, and the junior section, for children aged between 6 and 12, was introduced in 2003.

A non-contact women's section was created in 2004.

Mr Jury said: "Rugby is a sport that develops life skills, community responsibility and good health."

"It promotes discipline, because you have to play it in the right way."

"We are not a professional club – but we try and have a professional approach to what we do."

Cllr Maureen Byrne, deputy mayor of Haverhill, was one of the first to praise the project and offer her support during Tuesday's meeting.

She said: "Anything that improves activity and sport for young people and other residents is something we need to support 100 per cent."

"I hope the project is successful, and that it improves the facilities."

All town councillors present voted in favour of donating the money to the rugby club.

The Haverhill Veterans team play Beccles on December 8.

TRANSFORMATION: It is hoped that the Corn Exchange can be turned into a heritage centre.

A step forward in bid to safeguard Corn Exchange building

PLANS to rescue Haverhill's old Corn Exchange building from ruin have taken a step forward.

Sale of the Grade II listed building, on Withersfield Road, has been temporarily halted after success in placing the premises on the "community asset" register.

This means that if someone attempts to buy the Corn Exchange, residents will have six months to enter their own bid.

County councillor Tony Brown, who represents Haverhill East and Kedington for UKIP, revealed plans to transform the building into a heritage centre in September.

He said: "It looks like things are moving in the right direction at last. Now, if anyone tries to buy it, Haverhill as a town has six months to get the money together."

Now that the Corn Exchange has been made secure, the next step is to put together a business plan for how the building will run when it becomes a history and heritage centre.

Once that is agreed, the team behind the renovation will look at confirming interest from social enterprise groups for the project.

Businesses and other organisations have already expressed an interest in getting involved with the refurbishment and working within the centre.

Cllr Brown said: "We're sorry about the slow progress - there are a lot of mountains to climb on the way to deliver what we're trying to do."

"But we're over the first hurdle."

Cllr Brown says that a group to carry through the Corn Exchange renovation will be put in place once a business plan is agreed.

Once that is organised, they will then start looking at securing grants and other funding so work can finally begin.

Cllr Brown said: "We haven't got a town museum, and most towns over a population of 10,000 have some sort of heritage centre."

Haverhill Town Council has previously expressed support for the restoration of the Corn Exchange, and the potential jobs it could bring to the area.

They made a previous attempt to try and rescue the building, but the cost of bringing it back up to code and buying it off the market was too high.

Driver freed after car overturns

A DRIVER had to be freed from his car after it was involved in a collision.

Fire officers from Wickhambrook and Bury St Edmunds attended the scene just after 1.30am on Sunday, November 24.

The car was on its side on the A143 at Wickhambrook near to the junction with the B1063 when crews arrived.

The driver was freed by the fire service and taken to West Suffolk Hospital.

His injuries were described as non-life threatening.

Free parking in run up to Christmas

FREE parking is coming to Haverhill in the lead up to Christmas.

Parking charges have been dropped for the two Saturdays before Christmas, so parking will be free from 3pm on Friday until 8am on Monday.

This is taking place on December 14 and December 21.

Land Rover stolen and later found abandoned

A SILVER Land Rover was stolen during a burglary on November 23, at around 1.15am.

Thieves broke into the property, on Hertford Road, Clare, through an insecure front door.

The keys to the car, a silver Land Rover Freelander, were taken and the car was stolen.

It was discovered that evening, abandoned on a bridleway off Hickford Hill in Belchamp St Paul, Essex. Police are appealing for witnesses to the break-in.

Work starts on Cleves Place

(and yes, the name has changed)

A NEW care home 'with first class facilities' for 60 residents will open at the end of next year. . . and the name has been changed.

Construction has started on Haverhill's Cleves Place care home on the former Chalkstone Middle School site, Millfields Way.

The home, to replace Place Court, will have 60 en suite rooms and 24-hour nursing and specialist dementia care.

The home was named after Anne of Cleves, but originally bosses spelt the name Cleves Place – to avoid confusion, they said, with Anne of Cleves House on Hamlet Road.

However, this week they had a change of heart and decided to spell the home Cleves Place "to honour Anne of Cleves properly".

The Haverhill home is the seventh of 10 Care UK homes to help provide nursing and specialist dementia care in modern accommodation across Suffolk.

Jenny Antill, Assistant Cabinet Member for Health and Adult Services at Suffolk County Council said: "It is extremely pleasing to see construction get under way on another of the new homes – Suffolk people deserve the best possible care in the best possible surroundings."

"Place Court was built quite some time ago and has served its community extremely well but people's needs have changed a lot over the years and therefore it is important that work begins to replace it with purpose built facilities that will help staff to deliver high quality, personalised care for many years to come."

Residents currently living at Place Court, built in 1959, will be given the option to move to Cleves Place when it opens next year.

The new home will also include a landscaped garden, a cafe, a hairdressers and a small cinema.

Philip Steyn, Care UK's regional director for West Suffolk, and Phil Andrews, director Castleoak Partnerships also attended the ceremony on Monday.

Mr Steyn said: "This is an exciting stage in the development of Cleves Place in Haverhill, as we celebrate the start of construction on site."

"It is also an excellent achievement to mark the start of our seventh Suffolk development this year."

Sylvia Pearce, who won the competition to name the new care home, visited the site on Monday and said she was looking forward to moving into the new home.

15 weeks of chart success

AN UNSIGNED band has spent 15 weeks near the top of a radio chart.

Punk band Flux 32, from Haverhill, enchanted radio listeners with debut single What If – so much so that it's spent 15 weeks in the Cambridge 105 FM unsigned chart.

Now the band, which consists of vocalist Marty Sewell, drummer Michael Jaimeson, Shane and Graham Woodley on guitar and Dave Brittain on bass, have radio stations buzzing with anticipation over a collection of new songs.

The live session was recorded at Crooks Hall Studio, in Boyton End, and the tracks were played exclusively on Dave Hammond's Smelly Flowerpot Show on Cambridge 105 this week.

Dave, who also lives in Haverhill, discovered the band on Twitter and gave Flux 32 their first ever air play.

After other shows and stations, including Star Radio, started expressing an interest, the group were entered into the unsigned chart.

Dave said: "I have had some great feedback on the band from listeners, and not just those in Cambridge."

"I have listeners all over the world, and people from the United States and European countries have been in touch about them."

Dave Brittain, bass, said: "We wanted to do something special, so we recorded a session exclusively for the show."

"We seem to be picking up a bit of momentum now, and our hard work is starting to pay off."

The quintet will be live at the Portland Arms, Cambridge, tonight as part of 105's New Music Generator.

Tickets cost £4 on the door. Flux 32 are interested in playing locally, so get in touch if you want them for a gig.

We just want a reliable bus service!

I HAVE just read the article in last week's paper and would like to comment on Andy Campbell's explanation regarding the number 13 bus service's poor time keeping. If, as he suggests, it is the roadworks at Hills Road in Cambridge causing the problem, then why do the park and ride, number 7 and number 1 buses all manage to get through?

They come from the same direction, using the very same Hills Road as the number 13 service and yet we see endless buses coming through; but alas, all too frequently the 13/13A/X13 is late. How can this be?

We have laughingly joked whilst waiting for several hours a week (at both ends of our journey because, oh yes, they are late in the mornings from Haverhill too!) that there is a 'Bermuda Triangle' situation going on between Drummer street and Addenbrooke's which is where I get on (eventually)!

Well, we have to amuse ourselves whilst waiting.

Whilst Tim Syer is sadly unable to drive to work which means he has no other way of getting there, I do drive, but started using the bus because I no longer needed to race home in my car to collect children from school after a shift, so could work around the bus timetable.

It is also, in my opinion, the greener option.

It makes us so unhappy that the service is so poor at times.

At other times of course, the bus is on time (so how does Andy Campbell explain that one re the roadworks?) and everyone is so much happier.

It is not a free service. It takes a considerable percentage of our salaries (and I was paying for both myself and my daughter for the last two years as she was in 6th form in Cambridge so spending £170 a month on bus tickets) so I think it is not too much to expect a reliable service.

I was recently so cross that I wrote to Stagecoach to complain and was told that in a given time period of about 5-6 weeks, the bus had only been late three times! Laughable because it had already been late more than three times that week!

We don't complain because we like to. We do so out of frustration and annoyance because it affects our lives at both ends of the journey.

We simply want a reliable service,

COLIN Hardy, from Sowley Green, Thurlow, sent us this photograph which he took at Gosfield lake in Essex. Colin wrote: "It was a very rushed and lucky shot. I literally stopped my car as I was passing the lake, picked up the camera and grabbed the shot."

We'd love to see your photos. You can email them to: wendy.davey@cambridge-news.co.uk

Let us keep driving on the High Street please

WE live in Kedington, before that in Cardinals Green Horseheath, a total of seven years. We absolutely LOVE the fact that one can drive slowly down the High Street, park outside a shop or the bank and pop straight out into a shop. We have never seen any problems caused, everyone seems to obey the rules and drive slowly. The limit could always be lowered to 10mph if deemed necessary. Many times we have just wanted a loaf, a card, something from Savers, to collect a dry cleaned item etc.

If we'd had to park in the car park for this it's a whole new ball game, and eventually the High Street would lose all these customers doing the same, and the small High Street shops would close, leaving multiples and faceless monoliths like Tesco. This is why Haverhill is unique. It also helps elder people who may not be able to walk too far. Keep traffic on the High Street please.

Schoolchildren collect donations for Food Bank

AS part of the School's traditional Harvest celebration the children at Great Sampford Primary School collected 41.8kg of food to donate to the Haverhill Food Bank.

Food Bank is a local community based charity that supports local families who may need short term help as a result of loss of job, family bereavement or other circumstances.

This project was chosen by the members of the School Council who were delighted with the whole school response. Ann Merrigan, the Operations Manager came in person to collect the donation and thank the children for their kindness.

Kerry's story inspires £3k

AN INSPIRATIONAL mum-of-two has raised £3,000 through a charity shopping evening.

Kerry Farrant, 32, made it her mission to fundraise for Breast Cancer Care, Jo's Cervical Cancer Trust and Ovarian Cancer Action after finding a lump when she was 12 weeks pregnant with daughter Esmay, now 3.

As well as taking part in the Woman V Cancer Ride the Night challenge next year, Kerry decided to top up her total by holding a charity shopping evening on

DEBRA FOX

November 22.

Kerry, of Mill Hill, said: "I couldn't believe how many people came."

"There were women, men and children and I could not have asked for a better night."

"Thank you to everyone who helped or made a donation and came along."

Businesses and residents across the town made donations to the raffle on the night, with more than 60 prizes up for grabs including a Dyson fan, a 32in flatscreen TV and a Kindle.

Kerry hopes that by the time the sponsored cycle comes around in May she will have raised £7,000 for women's cancer charities.

The 32-year-old has more than £1,000 on her Just Giving page.

She said: "Raising this money releases me from some of the worry that I could have left my two girls with something I have had - it could go towards helping them when they're older."

CCTV images released after clothing theft

POLICE are searching for a woman in her 20s in relation to a shoplifting offence on Haverhill High Street.

The theft took place at around noon on November 14, when an item of clothing was stolen.

The woman in the CCTV images is described as white and about 5ft 7in tall.

She has black hair, which was pulled back, and she was wearing a blue top, dark coat, and brown boots.

Anyone who believes they know this woman is asked to contact PC Jim Carille at the Investigations Management Unit on 101 or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

ON CAMERA:
The woman
police would

Work starting on High Street plan

A BOARD made up of representatives from across Haverhill has started work on a town centre plan.

ONE Haverhill held a workshop to discuss ideas for a localised plan for the town to form part of Vision 2031.

It is hoped that the master-plan will have similar success to the group's community budget plan, which was revealed earlier this year.

ONE Haverhill consulted regularly with businesses, residents and retailers to develop the budget, and the decision came as a direct result of what the public asked for.

Sarah Howard, Chairman of the board, said: "This appears to be the perfect project for ONE Haverhill to be involved with as it is relevant to every single person and business in the town and we hope as many people and businesses will share their ideas with us as possible.

"Of course we all want a bigger variety of High Street retail shops, we also want to support our local traders, but town centres are also traditionally places for socialising, for meeting with friends, for enjoying culture and entertainment, for housing, for business, and a focal point for the community.

"The High Street and town centres are changing and this is about telling the planners what we want for our town and what we need to encourage others to come to Haverhill and spend money here."

Cllr Roger André, town

mayor, is also a member of the ONE Haverhill board.

He said the consultation focused on the town centre as a "vibrant, attractive and accessible centre" which provides a range of services to residents.

He added: "Above all the meeting considered the town centre as an integral component of the town offering much more than a shopping venue."

Once adopted, Vision 2031 will be part of the statutory planning policy for the St Edmundsbury Borough Council, which estimates that Haverhill's population, which is currently at around 27,000, could rise to 35,000 over the next two decades.

ONE Haverhill hopes to have a draft document ready for public consultation in spring 2014.

High Street pub The Bell closes suddenly

HAVERHILL High Street has suffered a blow with the sudden closure of a pub.

The Bell reportedly shut its doors on Friday and was boarded up on Tuesday.

Owner Mickie Rogers and manageress Claire Dosoruth took over the pub in December 2012, introducing a new steakhouse menu and bringing in Sky Sports.

A spokesman for Greene King brewery said: "Following an extensive review of the pub, it was decided that the Bell no longer fitted in with our core estate and the pub has now been sold."

"The Bell was being run by temporary tenants who knew of these plans before going into the pub."

Will Austin, town clerk, said: "The owners had not long since moved in to take over the running of the pub. Losing another of the town's pubs is not good for Haverhill's evening economy."

Society's fine-tuning for Christmas concert

PERFORMERS from Haverhill's Choral Society are shaping up for their final concert of the year.

The group will perform at Hundon Parish Church on December 14 from 7.30pm.

Formed more than 150 years ago, the choral society is putting on a varied selection of seasonal carols and songs as well as an arrangement featuring words from William Blake, a piece by JS Bach and a Handel composition.

Samuel Ward Academy's newly-formed chamber choir will also make an appearance.

After a busy year of performances, including a slot at the Royal Albert Hall as part of the Big Choir, the Haverhill Choral Society will be singing carols at Costa Coffee, on the High Street, on December 6 and at Ixworth House, Bury St Edmunds, on December 7.

Rehearsals will resume again in the new year for 60 members, in preparation for a spring concert.

Led by musical director Jane Wright, the choral society welcomes new members who share an interest in music.

Club nets £50k for its pavilion

A NON-league football club is set to transform with a grant of £50,000.

Linton Granta FC plans to refurbish the bar and social area after being chosen as one of eight recipients for a Budweiser Club Futures grant. The programme, which is in its second season, aims to help clubs by giving them the means to improve general facilities and making them more financially sustainable.

David O'Dell, club secretary of Linton Granta FC, said: "This money gives us the opportunity to complete our pavilion extension and refurbishment which will help consolidate us as a step seven club."

DEBRA FOX

"It's great that Budweiser recognises the importance of non-league football and this grant is a massive boost for all the hardworking volunteers that keep the club going year after year."

A total of £1 million has been invested into 16 non-league football clubs so far.

Darren Ferguson, manager of League One side Peterborough United, presented the club with the cheque on Monday at the pavilion.

He said: "I was delighted to present the cheque, and they were delighted to receive the money."

"We just hope it makes a big difference. It means so much to these clubs - as much as it does to any other club."

Linton Granta FC is now in with a chance of winning an additional £100,000 super grant, following a Facebook vote.

The voting opens in January 2014, on the Budweiser UK and FA Cup Facebook pages.

Kangaroo Dundee films at Linton Zoo

AUSTRALIA'S newest Outback hero visited the Red Kangaroos at Linton Zoo for today's episode of Blue Peter.

Animal lover Chris Barns, nicknamed 'Kangaroo Dundee', made a flying visit to the Zoo's Kangaroo sanctuary this week to film a piece with Radzi Chinyanganya from Blue Peter.

During his visit, the Australian, also known as 'Brolga', spoke to the keepers about his experiences running his own Kangaroo Sanctuary in Alice Springs.

Brolga, the star of two-part BBC2 documentary, Kangaroo Dundee, has dedicated his life to rescuing baby kangaroos orphaned and left for dead on the roadside.

Kim Simmons, director of the zoo, said: "He is clearly very passionate about the job he does and about encouraging others to respect nature."

The BBC documentary Kangaroo Dundee returns to our screens tomorrow at 8.30pm.

Alan Holloway grew up knowing he was adopted – and assumed it was because his mother didn't want him. But last year he discovered the truth couldn't have been more different, as he told Emma Higginbotham

SHIFTING through his father's paperwork following his death in 2011, a faded document caught Alan Holloway's eye. It was his adoption certificate.

There in black and white was his birth name, Wayne Michael Mitchell, and the name of his birth mother, Eileen Elizabeth Mitchell. "It was the first time I knew what her name was," says Alan quietly.

Born in Brighton in 1949, Alan always knew that he was adopted, "and I wasn't bothered," he shrugs. "I felt that if I wasn't wanted by somebody, tough luck; I sort of grew up with that attitude. My parents gave me some brief details – that my father was French-Canadian – they couldn't remember if he was in the army, navy or air force. But I wasn't that interested. It's not until you have a child of your own that you see it from a different perspective." Growing up, Alan was always fiercely independent. "I had a loving family, but I didn't get on with my father, and I left home at 15," he says. He went into the building trade, refurbishing commercial premises, and he and wife Lorna had their son, David, 35 years ago.

"It was then I began to think 'Oh, perhaps my mother would like to know that everything's OK,'" he recalls. "You soften when you have children. But by that time I didn't want to ask any more questions of my adoptive parents, because they were getting on."

For decades Alan, who lives in Holywell, near St Ives, thought no more about it. But, armed with his birth mother's full name, and with his father now dead and his mum in her 90s ("and not as sharp as she used to be"), in January last year he decided it was time to investigate.

There was just one problem: Alan didn't have a computer. "I'd run my own business for 30 years, and had other people doing it for me; I wasn't interested in computers," he says with a smile. "So I thought we'd nip into John Lewis and buy one."

"And once I'd got the hang of the thing, within about 20 minutes of putting her name in, it started coming up on websites."

Alan added his own birth details, and before long he came across a family tree on Ancestry.com which he realised must be his. He quickly sent a message to the person who'd created it, a woman called Donna who, from what he could gather, was Eileen's younger sister's daughter. "I said 'My mother was Eileen: could you give me any other information? I think we're related...' And Donna came back to say 'Yes, I'm your cousin!'"

How did that feel? "Strange," says Alan, his eyes brimming. "Donna said 'I'm checking with mum before

I can go any further', and she got in touch with Maureen, my aunt. There were lots of family tears, apparently. Then she told me that my mother had died six years earlier. I thought it might be the case, but I was sad."

Donna gave Alan her number and, chatting on the phone, told him that he had a brother living in Stoke, and sister in Florida, "but she said 'I can't give you any details until I've found out how they feel about it', and she contacted Niki, my sister, first."

It was then that the bombshell hit. Having spent his whole life believing that his mother had rejected him, Alan could hardly believe his eyes when he read Niki's first email.

"Mum did not want you to be adopted," it said. "She had told me how she had gotten pregnant when she was a teenager and how times were very different back then. She had wanted to raise you."

TOGETHER: Alan met his brother Paul and sister Niki for the first time last year after being adopted shortly after being born

'One day my grandparents told her to go to the movies and they would watch you. She returned home in time to see you being driven away. She was devastated. She always talked about you, felt extra sad around your birthday, and longed to find you. I don't know all the details, but I know she tried.

'Adoptions were closed back then, her parents wouldn't tell her anything, and I believe had a lot of control over her. There was no Ancestry.com to help. After time, I think she felt it was better for you for her not to try – but she never stopped longing.'

It was, says Alan, very difficult to read, "and explained a lot," he adds, his eyes filling with tears again. "Talking to my aunt, Maureen, who was 13 at the time, my mother's parents were absolutely appalled by the fact that she was pregnant. She was 19. They gave her a choice of getting rid of me or getting out of the house.

"Apparently my grandfather was hell-bent on getting as much revenge as he could on his daughter, so I was kept by them for seven or eight weeks – longer than the normal six weeks – and my mother felt that the family was forgiving her, and that she could keep me. Then she came home one day to find I'd disappeared, which was part of my grandfather's punishment."

Alan's mother then met someone else, who promised to help find her son: "A load of rubbish, of course. She married him in 1949 with a view to getting me back, but that didn't happen, and they split up within about nine months. It was some years later that she remarried and then had Niki, who's nine years younger than me, and Paul, who's 14 years younger."

Did the family know about him? "Yes, they'd always been totally open about it. The only one that didn't believe it was Paul. The whole episode had badly affected my mother; she became a bit of a fantasist, and Paul never really believed that he had a brother."

Alan and Niki exchanged phone numbers, "and we've been on the phone ever since, at least once a week. Talking has been so easy, so natural. Then eventually I got to speak to Paul, and two months later we went to see him and his family.

"The expression on his face when he opened the door – Lorna wondered whether he was going to faint! Poor old Paul, I still don't think it had dawned on him until I turned up. But since then we've got on very well."

Was it somehow more difficult knowing that his mother actually did want to keep him? "I felt guilty," admits Alan. "I felt guilty at being the cause of so much family upset, and the fact that I hadn't contacted her sooner. But my aunt, Maureen, said that perhaps it's as well that I never met my mother.

"By then she had built me up so much, and had so many fantasies about what I'd achieved, that it didn't matter if I was a king by now, it wouldn't have been good enough. It wouldn't have fitted in with all her fantasies. So I guess there's a plus side."

And what of his father?

"All we know is that he was called Frank, we think his middle name was Wayne, and he was over with the Canadian forces. My aunt quite fell for him herself, apparently: she said he was extremely good-looking and tall.

"The sad thing is that my mother went out with him for a couple of years and they got engaged, then his commanding officer found out, and the next thing that she knew he'd been sent straight back to Canada – because he was already married with two children.

"By that time she was pregnant, of course. So she had a really rough deal; no wonder she couldn't cope.

"It's strange. I know that if he had children, I've got other relatives. But I wasn't going to try to trace him because anybody who can do that to somebody, I don't want to know.

"But my sister said it would be nice to have a complete family tree, so I guess I'll investigate further – even if it's just to tell him what a bastard he was! He's going to be in his 90s now, if he's still alive that is, and his family may not know, so that's a difficult one. If I can satisfy my curiosity, then I think we'll leave it at that."

It's been quite a project for Alan – has it changed him? "Yes, I've got softer," he admits. "This has opened up a different part of me, so I'm now having to learn to talk about difficult things without it getting to me."

"But I'd encourage anybody to do it," he adds. "You don't necessarily have to meet people if you don't want to. Being adopted I had no bloodline, and now I've got a family tree that goes back, so far, to 1675! I think we all have a need to know who we are, what we are, and where we come from."

These days, Alan's enjoying getting to know his new family properly. He's seen Paul several times, and Niki and her husband flew over to visit last October:

"That was the first time I'd seen her. I picked her up at the airport and managed a stiff upper lip – her husband didn't! We had an absolutely fantastic time." He and Lorna are soon to fly out to Florida to meet Niki's two grown-up sons, the nephews he never knew he had.

Alan is also extremely close to his aunt, Maureen. "She's really good fun. We can be rude to each other, and we are! It's almost like a brother sister relationship," he says.

But, of course, he'll never know what his relationship with Eileen would have been like. Is he sorry he never met her? Alan pauses. "I'm sorry I couldn't have said 'None of this is your fault'."

"I'm sorry I couldn't have said that I don't bear a grudge – and everything's fine."

DONATION: The tools were presented to TWAM on November 19.

Seized tools for charity

SEIZED tools have been donated to charity.

Suffolk Police have shown their support for Tools With A Mission (TWAM) which re-distributes tools used in crimes to developing countries.

The force has donated tools to the charity for six years and made their most recent contribution on November 19.

Detective Chief Inspector Morgan said: "The concept of this registered charity, which is based in Ipswich, is fantastic. It enables people in places like Uganda and Zambia to earn a living and to support themselves, empowering them to become self-sufficient."

The charity takes the tools away for polishing up before shipping them out to countries that benefit from the aid.

They take anything from simple carpentry tools to full workshop kits. Visit twam.co.uk.

Georgina is now the youngest KEWAP instructor in the country, and only one of 10 women to qualify.

She said: "It is an honour to be able to help others, including youngsters like myself to understand the dangers of knife crime, not only in being threatened by it, but also the dangers in carrying such weapons as well."

"Many people who carry knives for their

On yer Aerocycles bike!

SINCE the London Olympics of 2012, Bradley Wiggins and Chris Froome's victories in the past two Tour de Frances and also the first three stages of next year's tour being held in the UK, cycling has never been more popular. And Haverhill company Aerocycles is perfectly placed to cater for the growing number of cycling enthusiasts.

Owned and staffed itself by enthusiastic recreational and competitive cyclists, Aerocycles provides friendly, local and expert advice for all. Their customers include not only the "middle aged men in lycra" or MAMILs that are part of the phenomenon that has seen cycling dubbed "the new golf", but also everyone from parents looking for a starter bike for their child through to serious competitive cyclists.

For kids, they stock balance bikes – the ideal place to start – as well as the lightweight Frog bike range, ideal for children. Their location on a quiet industrial unit means that they also have the outdoor space to allow children to test-ride a bike before purchasing: a service that you wouldn't get by opting to buy from an online dealer! There are few better Christmas gifts for a child than their first bike, so pop in before the big day to take a look at their great selection.

For men and women alike, Aerocycles stock a wide range of cycles for every level and requirement, with brands like Trek, Merida, Scott and Dawes. A recent addition is the typically-stylish Italian Derosa range, and they also have Van Nicholas titanium frame bikes for an extra comfortable ride. They can

But it's not just the bikes themselves. You'll find pretty much everything else associated with bikes and cycling, under one roof at Aerocycles, and a recently-extended second floor on which you'll find a wide range of men's, women's and children's clothing. One of the current special offers is 10% off for lights and high visibility clothing: vital for every cyclist this winter!

As well as all this – and maintenance and repairs facilities – Aerocycles also participate in the

Christmas All Wrapped Up

Notes for a smooth run...

NOW that we're well and truly into the festive season, you might be feeling like there's still lots to be done before you can relax and start truly celebrating.

Don't worry! Here's a short list of the vital ingredients to make your Christmas run smoothly. We're sure you've already got most of this covered, but there might be a few useful memory-jogs. If everything on this list is already done and dusted, then well done! Reward yourself with an extra mince pie, you've earned it.

All present and correct
Write a list of everyone you need to buy a present for, with a note of any ideas you've had for what to get each person. Prioritise anyone whose present needs to be posted: and make sure you are aware of "post-by" dates, for home and abroad.

Santamail

Getting your kids to write a letter to Santa is always one of Christmas' special moments. It's also a great source of present ideas for hard-pressed parents! Google "letter to Santa" for online ideas.

Dig out the decs

However early or late you like to put up your decorations, it's always wise to have a preliminary "bauble audit" a little while beforehand. That will give you enough time to replace any decorations damaged (or simply looking a little past their best) since they were last used to "deck your halls" 12 months ago.

Christmas cards

The listing, writing and sending of Christmas cards each year can turn into a bit of a big task.

Break it down into manageable chunks by prioritising cards to be posted abroad, cards to be posted in the UK, cards to be hand-delivered, and writing them in separate instalments. Rope in the whole family too, and why not consider computerising your address list, so envelopes can be labelled with just one click! Remember to hang on to a few emergency spare cards: one of the inevitable rules of Christmas is that no matter how comprehensive you think your list is, there will always be at least one person that you forget to write a card for, until you receive one from them...

The festive feast

If you're the person responsible for cooking Christmas Dinner – the meal of the year! – then it can seem quite daunting.

Lists are once again your friend. Start with a headcount, making sure you factor in anyone with specific dietary requirements. Plan your menu (starter, main course, side dishes, desserts, drinks). Now write a comprehensive shopping list of everything that you need to make that happen. Don't leave it too late to order or source your big bird

(if you're having one!) Decide what time you want to serve the Christmas Day meal, and then work your timings backwards from that point. Prepare as much as possible in advance: your friends and family will want to spend time with you on Christmas Day (and you've got that HUGE pile of presents to open!) so pre-plan and delegate. As long as you make sure all the praise for the magnificent spread that you pull off still goes directly to you, as the "Head Chef", of course!

Party shoes

Lastly, whatever you do, however you're doing it, and whoever you're doing it with, have a wonderful, magical, fun, festive and very very Merry Christmas.

NAVIGATING THEIR WAY TO VICTORY: Members of the 2nd Haverhill Cubs

Cubs celebrate another success

YOUNGSTERS had their outdoor skills tested in an annual competition.

Members of the 2nd Haverhill Cubs went home as winners after taking the Sudbury District Cub skills trophy for the 7th year running.

The competition, which tested knowledge of fire lighting, tracking, map reading, compass work, first aid, pioneering and knotting, is one of many achievements for the troop this year.

They also won second place in the District handicraft, sports and rounders competitions and fourth place in the seven-a-side football and quiz contests.

The pack also took home the Ernest Shaw Trophy for Attendance and Achievement for the 7th time since 1995.

Richard Strugnell, Group Chairman for 2nd Haverhill Sea Scout Group, said: "This is a real testament to the hard work put in by all cubs who took part in this year's competitions."

100 new jobs on offer at Hanson

NEW jobs are coming to Haverhill.

Quarry and concrete company Hanson UK is making a big investment in new tipper, mixer and articulated trucks and is looking for experienced drivers to join the ranks.

More than 100 drivers will be taken on across the country.

Hanson is looking for Cat C and Cat CE drivers to be based out of sites across the region, including its concrete plant in Haverhill.

Bob Collett, regional transport manager, said: "We are looking for people who share our commitment to high levels of customer service.

"They will be rewarded with a permanent position which offers top rates of pay, performance bonuses and a benefits package that includes a generous pension scheme."

Firm is first to go carbon positive

DEBRA FOX

A TRANSPORT company covering East Anglia is the first to go carbon positive.

GreenAir Cars has made moves to minimise impact on the environment by removing more carbon emissions than it creates.

The family-run company, co-founded by father and son team Martin and Justin Ott, has teamed up with the Great Fen Project to achieve their work.

The project aims to restore a huge wetland area between Peterborough and Huntingdon over the next 50 years, and donations from GreenAir Cars will be used to restore 182 hectares of land at Engine Farm.

Martin Ott, who lives in Haverhill, said: "We love innovation – we like coming up with ideas to give the travelling public a better deal all around."

GreenAir Cars calculate the amount of carbon emitted per journey, by converting the mileage into grams of carbon emitted.

This allows them to accurately track their environmental impact.

The emissions are converted to pounds, and donations are made to the Great Fen

GOING GREEN: Justin and Martin Ott

Project twice a year.

It also means GreenAir Cars, based in Saffron Walden, is the only transport firm in Cambridgeshire able to issue carbon reports to business customers, which is now a legal obligation for publicly listed firms.

The pre-bookable car service specialises in long runs and airport transfers for business travellers to and from Cambridge, Uttlesford, North Essex and West Suffolk. It uses either electric hybrid vehicles or cars with strong eco-credentials.

Mr Ott said: "Most Cambridge companies are aware of their carbon impact on the environment, and they are all trying to do what they can to minimise it."

"We're offering them an opportunity to reduce their carbon as well as providing a service for their travel needs."

The company was also the first in the UK to offer free on-board Wi-Fi, advanced online booking and paperless invoicing.

Win tickets to Disney's new Frozen

CELEBRATE the start of the festive season with a family ticket to see new Disney smash Frozen.

Eternal winter grips the kingdom of Arendelle, leaving it to young optimist Anna (Kristen Bell) to save the day.

She believes her sister Elsa (Idina Menzel) is to blame for the bitter cold, after being cursed at birth with the ability to create ice and snow.

Anna sets off on a quest to find her, accompanied by mountain man Kristoff (Jonathan Groff) and his reindeer Sven.

Along the way, they meet an accident-prone talking snowman.

In this week's competition, Haverhill Cineworld is offering a movie goody bag and a family ticket – two adult tickets and two child tickets – for the lucky winner.

There is a runner-up prize of a family ticket on offer too.

To have a go at winning the prize, just answer the following question:

In Frozen, what is the name of the talking snowman who dreams of nothing more than going on holiday and being in the sun?

- Olaf
- Frosty
- Carrot Nose

Email your answer, with your name and contact telephone number, to:

editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk, before 5pm on December 5.

Do a bit of extra shopping to help the needy

CUSTOMERS at Tesco stores across the country are being invited to help collect 10 million meals.

The Haverhill branch is holding its collection from tomorrow until Sunday.

Nigel Pittham, store manager, said: "Our customers were incredibly generous when we held our last food collection in the summer helping to donate 1.9 tonnes of food and supplies for the foodbank. We're hoping to collect an even bigger total this time.

"In the run-up to Christmas we want to do our bit to feed those in need." Tesco is joining up with foodbanks charity the Trussell Trust and collected food will be dispensed by the local foodbank.

Customers will be given a special shopping list when they enter the store, and asked to pick an item such as long-life milk, cereal, or tinned foods.

Tesco will top up the total by 30 per cent.

the GUIDE

For the full line-up, which also includes Lionel Shriver, Jonathan Coe and David Walsh, and ticket details, visit www.cambridgewordfest.co.uk. And find out more on Twitter @cam_wordfest.

YOU can't beat a good book, with a fire (or the heating whacked up) and a cup of tea, now winter has hit. Cambridge Wordfest has gone a step further by adding real live authors and talkers to the wintry, literary mix. With our sister paper the Cambridge News as media partner, for one day only the city will be inundated by a collection of brilliant writers. The day in question is Sunday, December 1, and these, in ELLA WALKER's book, are the big hitters you really shouldn't miss.

Jessica Fellowes and Liz Trubridge
The ADC, 4pm, £9-£11

Still preoccupied by the goings on upstairs and down at Downton Abbey, above, even though Season 4 has just ended?

Well, programme creator Julian Fellowes is sadly not free, but his niece Jessica, journalist and author of The World of Downton Abbey and The Chronicles of Downton Abbey, is. As is Liz Trubridge, the show's executive producer.

The pair will be discussing the ins and outs of staging such a programme and what it's like tackling the (very many) critics, particularly during this last season which, having steadily moseyed along quite dully, suddenly exploded with a harrowing rape storyline prompting Ofcom to get involved.

Then there are the costumes, the house, the history and how much longer it will all rumble on for. Basically, you'll get to dip into the juicy backstory of the show and behind-the-scenes shenanigans.

And if they don't talk about the simply brilliant Maggie Smith for a good portion of the session – the main, legitimate reason for tuning in every Sunday night; her one-liners are just wondrous – we'll be gutted.

Geoff Colman, broadcaster, writer and head of acting at the Central School of Speech and Drama will be chairing the chat.

See You in the Morning

The ADC, 11.30am, £9-£11

Prepare to get a bit weepy. Broadcaster, film critic and national TV treasure Barry Norman, right, has published his memoirs, See You in the Morning, and they are devastating in the loveliest of ways.

Based on his wife and their 53 years of marriage – from the tricky first two years to the pretty wonderful decades that followed and her death in 2011 – it's said to be witty, heartfelt and painfully moving.

In a recent interview with the Daily Mail, Norman said of his wife's death: "In fiction, people give anguished cries of 'No! Oh, no! Oh, please God, no!' I never used to believe it before but now I know it's true. That's exactly what people do."

"And it doesn't get any better. I was hoping it might, but it doesn't. There haven't been any stages of grief. It's been pretty much the same from day one."

Hear him talk about their life, the funny, difficult and ridiculous moments, and what it's like to live with the loss of it. Tissues at the ready.

South Pacific

THE am-dram Cambridge Operatic Society (CaOS) is gearing up to perform Richard Rogers and Oscar Hammerstein II's (they of Oklahoma and The Sound of Music) South Pacific at the Arts Theatre.

Adapted from the Pulitzer Prize-winning novel, Tales of the South Pacific, by James A Michener, the show is chock-a-block full of hits and romance.

We had a brief chat with professional director Chris Cuming:

Tell us about the show – what should people expect? It's based on a collection of stories about people on the island of South Pacific during the Second World War.

It's based around a love story, but there are all these underlying stories about race. There are a lot of political undertones, and when it came out it was a huge thing, a big moment for everyone. A lot of big Broadway American shows are based on the American dream, and this actually dealt with some difficult topics.

You make it sound quite heavy going. . .

It's also a show where every song is a hit! You've got Some Enchanted Evening, Nothing Like A Dame, Gotta Wash That Man Right Outta My Hair, it's a real Broadway classic show but also with a really genuine story. That's what we've really strived to do in rehearsals, to get this human story across.

So why should people come along?

It's a warming piece that has a wonderful sense of optimism and hope. And it's a good laugh too. People will have a really enjoyable night and hear the classics they've grown up with. But also, see and listen to a true, human story where everyone can relate to a character, or to a thought, whether we've said it out loud or not. We've all experienced some of what these characters are going through and the moral dilemmas they're put in.

Have you put much of a twist on the original?

For me what's important about it is staying true to the real story. Sometimes on musicals people can get carried away with the showmanship and the pizzazz factor, but for me that's there in the music; it's about finding the beauty of the story. It's not just a musical for us; we're playing it like a play. It's ok if you're not too fussed by musicals in general then?

It's a show for everyone. It's not just for the musical theatre lovers out there, if you love a really good hearty story, then this is a show to come along to. There are some huge moments. We've got 28 in the orchestra, which is big for any show, let alone a local company, so the sound is going to be absolutely extraordinary.

What else should we know?

For me it's been great to come and see and enjoy the talent that Cambridge has got. That's what's joyous about these shows.

What's your last word on the matter?

It might be the winter but come and see this summer show in the South Pacific! We might just do that.

film of the week

SAVING MR BANKS
certificate PG, 2h05m

ALMOST 50 years after Mary Poppins first charmed cinema audiences, Robert Stevenson's magical film continues to cast a spell with its lively characters, heartwarming sentiment and hummable tunes. Yet the colour-saturated fantasy, which won five Oscars almost never materialised on the big screen. Australian-born British novelist PL Travers, who penned the series of books on which the film was based, famously rebuffed Walt Disney's efforts to purchase the rights for more than 20 years.

When she finally relented in 1961, Travers was granted script approval. Archive recordings of the meetings between the author, screenwriter Don DaGradi and songwriter brothers Richard and Robert Sherman reveal her resistance to the Disney-fication of her beloved nanny.

That infamous tug-of-war between the writer and Hollywood filmmaker is recreated in Saving Mr Banks, an elegant and witty comedy emboldened by tour-de-force performances from Emma Thompson and Tom Hanks. When we first meet Travers (Thompson), she has fallen on hard times yet still refuses to entertain the advances of Disney (Hanks). Yet the filmmaker is persistent and eventually, Travers flies to America to meet Walt and team including Don DaGradi (Bradley Whitford), Richard Sherman (Jason Schwartzman) and his brother Robert (BJ Novak).

Despite a touching friendship with her chauffeur Ralph (Paul Giamatti), Travers is unmoved by the re-imagining of her cherished text and eventually she snaps, telling Disney: "Mary Poppins is not for sale. I won't have her turned into one of your silly cartoons." Something has to give and it is Disney who realises that if he is to win over the author, he must confront the ghosts of his own past. Saving Mr Banks is an embarrassment of riches, from the stunning lead performances to John Lee Hancock's assured direction and Kelly Marcel and Sue Smith's script, which intercut events in 1960s California with vignettes from Travers's turbulent childhood in 1906 Australia.

Hancock strikes just the right balance between humour and heart-tugging sentiment, culminating in a gitzzy world premiere screening where Travers finally shares Mary with the rest of the world and in so doing, sets herself free.

Celebrate the cranberry

CRANBERRIES are the staple fruit of Christmas, creating the sauce synonymous with turkey or adding warmth to winter punches, relishes and jellies.

These beautiful deep red berries aren't only popular with us though, they are also adored by wetland birds, so this year, Wildfowl and Wetland Trust wetland centres all across the country are holding their first ever Craneberry Fest – a celebration of the famous wetland fruit and an iconic wetland bird, the crane, after which cranberries are named. From November 30 until January 26, WWT Wetland Centres, supported by Ocean Spray, will be showing visitors how to make beautiful cranberry decorations for the tree and cranberry bird feeders.

The plant was first named by early European settlers in America who felt the expanding flower, stem and petals resembled the neck, head, and bill of a crane. Most cranberries are still grown in boggy areas of North America and eastern Europe. They're not widely grown in this country, although specialist fruit nurseries may offer a few types and the RHS also sells them.

The plants do have some visual worth, as they are evergreen and low growing, with pink bell flowers.

Cranberry 'Pilgrim', for instance, available from the RHS (www.rhs.org.uk) is a low-growing, evergreen cranberry with small, leathery leaves on lax stems that have an arching habit. Its attractive shape can be best admired when planted in a container so it can cascade over the sides of the pot. The tiny pinkish-red flowers appear in spring and are followed by tart dark red berries, a regular superfood packed with nutrients and vitamins. 'Early Black' has a spreading habit, evergreen leaves and large dark blue, fairly sweet fruit.

If you have problems with drainage in your garden, the cranberry might actually be for you. They need extremely acidic soil, with a pH of less than 5, and semi-bog conditions. They prefer sun but will also withstand light shade.

If you're planting them in the ground, dig a hole 40cm (16in) deep and line the base and sides with plastic sheeting. Fill with an ericaceous compost and mulch with 5cm (2in) of sawdust or wood shavings. Punch a few small holes in the sides of the plastic just above the bottom to allow water to seep out. If you can, use rain water to thoroughly wet the compost and trample it like grapes until the soil is soaking.

"Keeping them well watered is really important and early to mid-summer is critical," adds Hunt.

"Most days you will need to check the pot. They have a shallow root run so a pot 12 inches deep would be sufficient and ideally you want a pot which is wide but shallow."

In spring, feed the plants with sulphate of ammonia, sulphate of potash and bonemeal and top-dress with ericaceous compost.

If you are growing in pots you can control the conditions more effectively by spring planting in peaty ericaceous compost enhanced with around 10% lime-free grit. You'll need to keep the plants really wet, so stand the pots in wide saucers that remain topped up with water, particularly rainwater, as tap-water contains too much lime.

Feed the plants every week during the growing season with a product specifically formulated for acid-loving plants and you should be harvesting the berries in September and October. They will keep in the fridge for a good few weeks or you can freeze them or pop them on a tray in the oven on its lowest setting for a few hours to dry them.

Once the dried cranberries start to look like raisins, they can be added to bird feeders, while the fresh ones can be made into festive tree decorations, using floral wire and threading cranberries and craft beads through it to form circles.

You can also make snowflake decorations using a foam ball in the centre. Thread 5in pieces of wire through it to form the spokes of a snowflake shape and thread cranberries on to the wire, gluing a craft bead at the end of each wire spoke, to secure the berries.

For more details of the Craneberry Fest, go to www.wwt.org.uk.

Stunning launch for i3 at Elms

MORE than 250 guests were at Elms Cambridge on Saturday week for the launch of the i3 electric car, billed as "the world's first premium car designed from the ground up to be powered by an electric drive system".

Among the guests was the city's arch-venture capitalist and high-tech legend, Hermann Hauser, who, with his wife Pamela, was clearly delighted to have a run-around in the vehicle.

The launch came just as the i3, which has a 0-62mph schedule of 7.2 seconds, collected its first accolade in the UK even before it goes on sale, having topped the "Electric and Hybrid" Car category in The Sunday Times Top 100 Car list.

"BMW i is not just a new addition to the BMW brand, it is also a significant milestone for the automotive industry," said Elms Cambridge dealer principal Steve Penman at the event. "It stands for visionary vehicles and mobility services, inspiring design and a new understanding of premium that is strongly defined by sustainability. The new BMW i3 offers an innovative experience that combines impressive agility and exhilaration with the fascination of relaxing near silent driving."

"BMW is the first premium manufacturer to offer purpose-built electric vehicles and support solutions. What's more, from what we've already experienced about the new model, it is still a true driver's car, worthy of the BMW badge. Here at Elms Cambridge we are both delighted and very excited to be a part of the electric revolution."

BMW's first electric car will travel 80-100 miles on a single charge, and Recharging the i3 takes just three hours using a domestic fast-charger. The cost will vary depending on your energy provider but expect to pay as little as £2 – a fraction of the outlay needed to fuel a conventional diesel or petrol car to cover the same distance.

If you need a car for longer journeys, the i3 is still a viable option – just choose the i3 Range Extender. This supplements electric power with a small petrol motor. If the battery charge drops below 20 per cent the petrol engine acts as a generator to stop the charge dropping any further. Simply top up the fuel tank as needed and your journey can continue without needing to plug in to charge the battery.

Prices start from £25,680, including the government's £5,000 grant for low-emission vehicles. The i3 Range Extender, which uses a small two-stroke petrol engine to increase the car's range from 80-100 miles to 160-186 miles, is priced from £28,830 (including the £5,000 government grant).

Both i3 models include a three-year, unlimited mileage vehicle warranty and an eight-year, 100,000 mile battery warranty. The battery is also included in the price of the car so avoiding any separate lease charge for battery, as is the case for other electric vehicles.

For further information go to elmscambridgebmw.co.uk/new-bmw/bmw-i3. The i3 is on sale now.

Special celebration for Corsa 20 years on

LOCAL Vauxhall retailer, Murketts Vauxhall, is celebrating the arrival of a brand new addition to the Vauxhall line-up; the Corsa Sting.

Launched in the year that celebrates the 20th anniversary of the popular Corsa model, the sporty new variant is available to order now from the retailer, which has sites in Cambridge and Huntingdon, and brings even more great value to the range with a highly competitive starting price of £8,995.

Destined to be a real head-turner, the all-new Corsa Sting gives customers more equipment for less money and offers eye-catching design.

The model comes with a choice of 16-inch alloy wheels in a silver finish, complete with matching silver stripes on the bonnet, roof and tailgate and silver exterior mirror caps, whilst the option for 17-inch alloy wheels comes in a white finish with white twin sports stripes and matching exterior mirrors.

There's also the option of twin black stripes on the bonnet, roof and tailgate with black mirror caps, which is available in combination with either white or black 17-inch alloy wheels.

Twin black stripes are available with Casablanca white exterior paint. In addition, when black wheels are chosen the option of Sovereign silver exterior paint is also available.

The Corsa Sting is available to order now from Murketts Vauxhall. Visit murketts.co.uk for details.

General Vacancies

sperling retail

Sperling Retail Limited is one of the UK's premier store fixture suppliers and the following full time vacancies are now available:

Production Manager (Experience necessary)

This is an ideal opportunity for an experienced production manager with strong organisational skills who will help support the growing business. Experience in joinery and metalwork manufacturing is essential with a good knowledge of bespoke, small and volume production. Working within a small team, clear communication for departmental interaction is essential to plan and manage production over various sites and depts. Experience in a fully integrated Production Planning system (including implementation) would be an advantage.

Contracts Manager (Experience necessary)

Managing your own time between the office and site, you will have responsibility for delivering multiple projects for blue chip retailers, on time and to budget. You will need to have experience in managing installation and subcontract teams, contract negotiations, and be a well organised team player. The successful candidate will possess strong IT skills and have a good understanding of CDM and Health and Safety management. Experience in CAD, design, joinery or metalwork production would be advantageous.

Project Manager (Experience necessary)

Being the first point of contact for the client you will have responsibility for delivering multiple retail projects from initial concept to conclusion ensuring projects are completed right first time whilst achieving agreed margin levels. Liaising with all areas of the business and working with a wide variety of materials, production techniques and site conditions, good communication skills are a pre-requisite. Relevant experience in CAD, design and general production would be an advantage.

The Salary will be based upon qualifications and experience. Please send CV or written application to:-

Grading success for Chalkstone 12

CHALKSTONE Karate Club saw 12 members pass their exams at November's grading.

Nicky Coulter reached First Kyu after having a second red stripe added to his brown belt and now begins training for his black belt grading next year.

Beryl Kicks progressed to Second Kyu, which saw a red stripe put on her brown belt, while Kirsty Sparrow was awarded her brown belt after reaching Third Kyu.

Danny Ward and James Martinez both attained Fifth Kyu, thereby earning their purple belts.

Rebecca Falconio gained her yellow belt after reaching Seventh Kyu and James Dagley moved up to Eighth Kyu after earning his orange belt.

Emma Wymer, Finlay Bolton, Ryan Hammond, Annie McCormack and Rebecca Wilson all attained the level of Ninth Kyu and were awarded their red belts.

Your Guide to Moving Home

Moving home can be a complicated business and in the hectic run up to the big day it is all too easy to forget something vital. The team offers their readers this handy checklist to help avoid any major pitfalls. We suggest you tick them off as you go....

1 4-2 WEEKS TO GO:

- ☐ Packing – start packing and sorting through your belongings. Now is a good time to de-clutter and pack items rarely used. Make sure you have plenty of sturdy boxes, bubble wrap and sticky tape.
- ☐ Removal companies – get estimates from removal companies, checking that comprehensive insurance cover is available against damage or loss. Is there a packing and unpacking service? Confirm the date of your move with the firm you have chosen.
- ☐ Insurance – check on your home contents insurance policies to ensure that you are covered for the move, and covered at your new address.
- ☐ Utilities – make arrangements for your gas and electricity meters (plus water meters where relevant) to be read and all your appliances to be disconnected on the day of your move. Arrange to take over gas and electricity at your new address, and make sure that all appliances will be properly fitted, plumbed or connected.
- ☐ Telecommunications – Notify your telephone and broadband provider and ask them to make the necessary arrangements for a final account at your present address, and for taking over or installing telephone and broadband facilities at your new home.
- ☐ Post – Look into re-directing your post for a few months to make sure you receive all relevant correspondence.
- ☐ Children – Look into the possibility of your children, especially young children, staying with family or friends on the day of the move.
- ☐ Pets – Make arrangements for any pets to be booked into a cattery or kennels if required. Having your pets microchipped is a good idea and if already microchipped, have the address changed to your new one. Your vet can advise on this.

2

Change of address – tell companies and organisations that you are moving!

Notify:

- ☐ Employer
- ☐ Inland revenue
- ☐ Local council
- ☐ Banks or Building Societies
- ☐ Credit companies, store cards & other accounts
- ☐ Gas, Electricity and water boards
- ☐ Insurance companies
- ☐ Land / mobile phones
- ☐ Internet and cable / satellite TV providers
- ☐ Doctor, Dentist and Opticians
- ☐ DVLA
- ☐ Veterinary surgery
- ☐ TV Licensing

3 1 WEEK TO GO:

- ☐ Delivery address – change delivery address of your Cambridge News, milk, groceries and fuel to your new address as appropriate.
- ☐ Laundry – do any last minute laundry that you can – have you arranged for a plumber to disconnect your washing machine correctly?

- ☐ Kitchen cupboards – go through your kitchen cupboards and throw out anything not in date. Also check that all jars and bottles are correctly sealed before packing.

Ofuso, Read on target as Rovers clinch win

ANDREW Ofuso set Haverhill Rovers on their way to a 2-0 success at home to Mildenhall in the Thurlow Nunn League, Premier Division.

Ofuso broke the deadlock in the second half after being put through by Ben Robinson and 17-year-old debutant Jordan Read ensured victory with the hosts' second with his first touch after coming off the bench.

Rovers manager Dean Greygoose said: "It was a very important result for us after two tough away games where things hadn't gone for us and we hadn't played as well as we can do."

"We've got a young, inexperienced team and on Saturday we only had three players over 21, so I'm very pleased with how we did against Mildenhall, who had won five on the trot."

"Mildenhall started the game better than us and they caused us a lot of problems early on, but we started to calm down although they probably edged the first half."

Rovers bowed out of the Red Insure League Cup with a 3-1 defeat at Newmarket on Tuesday evening.

Jack Wilkinson's penalty on the hour proved to be only a consolation as the visitors were unable to claw back the deficit against Newmarket's 10 men.

Haverhill Borough were defeated 1-0 away by leaders Whitton in a close, physical encounter in Division One.

Borough's pre-game plans were thrown into disarray early on when winger Ryan Kent turned his ankle and had to be replaced by the returning Harry Halliwell.

The only goal of the game arrived after 27 minutes with Darcy De'arth flashing a header past the despairing Anthony Choat at the far post.
